Personal statement //

I am a friendly and outgoing individual with an abundance of experience in design related environments. I am punctual and reliable, as well as possessing excellent time-management skills, allowing me to prioritise tasks and consistently complete them to a high standard in a timely manner. With my extensive employment history centred around people, I am keen to expand upon these transferable skills. I am currently seeking full-time employment in a welcoming design environment where I can apply my skills in the sector and become a valuable asset to a well-established company. By joining such an organisation, I aim to contribute my passion for design, enhancing the overall experience for customers and the success of the company.
